*Have you ever had a moment,
you are wide awake,
but something happened like a dream literally?*

Life Made a Joke? Technology Made a Bug?

I haven't used Skype for a very long time. My old account could not be opened long time ago. I forgot the password of current account 2 months ago. But today, all of a sudden, this account opened. What's more weird was, I got 3 requests from 3 accounts, they are all your accounts. I remember those were contact requests, so I clicked "Accept" for each, feeling excited, thought finally you wanted to talk to me....

I saw your status used words like “Good bye”, “moved on”, and thought you were sad. So I left some messages to you, replied all the 3 accounts, hoping to cheer you up, hoping I could see you online with me again....

*But you didn't appear in my contacts group, but only in Suggested group.
What happened?
Who sent me those requests? You or the new Skype?*

WHAT
HELL

How I hope it was you.

How I hope Skype was not that smart to send me requests as suggested contacts..

How I hope you will come back...

How I hope we can talk about many things, food, movies, cyber security, work, events, books, many things, and feel happy....
