

GOT HOME

Finally got home, after 3+ years. This is my 2 weeks vacation.

Every time when I had left home for a very long time, I was looking forward to return back, but once really returned back, still think I don't really belong to this world any more.

Time passed by, not many things changed. On my way back, aunt is still very talkative. The airport still has so many people. Hot water still needs you to wait for a long time. Network is still very slow. Website visit even became more strict. Cannot use google, facebook, instagram and even including dropbox and gmail... Howcome? I could only use Github and even Stackoverflow is loading very slow.

Mom's food is always amazing. I'm going to give her more help this time. Jet lag made me feel so sleepy at this moment.

Finally got home.