

JEALOUSY

Sometimes, when a man who loves his girlfriend
and often clicked Like of my posts,
I was thinking,
he must has a pretty good girlfriend,
they must love each other deeply.

How I wish, I will never get jealousy, seeing the man I love often does that,
and I still love him with happiness...

JEALOUSY

This world is like a giant mirror, you see what you really feel. I used to be jealous a lot, because I knew I was about to leave Seattle or not in Seattle, but I was afraid of losing him. Too many things happened that I have realized, he will never talk to me and never see me any more.

Although I still care about him, I'm still working hard to get my citizenship. But all what I did was just to check his social media, it was glad to see his posts. I also knew he felt very sad recently, after I did those things because of my jealousy. Then what can I do? I could only have my Lync online there, focusing on the work.

I really hate that he will always do the same thing, often much worse, and never tried to make me feel better. I hate to let him win. I hate that feeling of being controlled because he has much tougher personality than me. Maybe I'm not smart enough to admit that I will never win.

JEALOUSY

This week when I entered into an elevator, an old couple was there. I applied my favorite perfume that day, and the old woman started to cough loudly that sounded obviously not normal cough. Right after I left the elevator, she was talking unpleasant words with her husband.

At that moment, I was thinking, I will never want to be like that woman. In their age, she is still having jealous... I'm wondering how strong their relationship really is?

But look what's in my mind recently, I kept thinking, that Cathy is wearing eye contact almost all the time, always needs to use eye liner, otherwise she looks so stupid. And Emmanuel just cannot figure these out.

I don't like this type me. No matter how stupid that Cathy really is.

JEALOUSY

I just want a peaceful life.

Having a boyfriend, that we love each other,
and we all feel secured.

I don't want to be the woman who jealous,
I want to be the one who's confident, trusts and wins the friends.

I don't want to be bothered by those unpleasant things.

Ah, DEF CON is coming!