

Grandma died.

Her children are saying goodbye in the hospital now.

I was video chatting with my parents. All of a sudden my aunt called my mom. 1 minute later, my mom quickly called me, saying, grandma's heart stopped, they need to get the the hospital immediately.

1 hour later, they were in the hospital, saying goodbye to her.

I tried to call them through the video chat, my dad also tried to call me but the connection could not be opened. So, I didn't get to see grandma.

I haven't really used my vacation time this year. I was about to return back this October, but now I'm not sure whether I could. There is a new project now, and I really want to do more in this project. If I leave now or leave before Christmas, maybe I will lose many opportunities. Life is hard, there're many unspeakable things force you to work very hard.

Grandma is a very peaceful woman, she has many friends because of her kindness. After grandpa died many years ago, she was always wearing his watch even after that watch no longer worked, and she never got married again. I still remember every Spring Festival, the whole family will get together. Grandma loves to see everyone there. But in fact every year, she was watching the TV alone, while her children were playing poker games, no one was really chatting with her or watching the TV with her. I often sat there because I didn't play those games, and I loved the candies near the TV. Grandma would try to find some questions to ask me, I replied and then had nothing to say. In 2015, when I was at home, grandma was living with us that summer. At that time, she has already forgot most of the faces at most of the time. One night, it was late and she was supposed to go to sleep. My parents went out to visit my aunt. I asked grandma to go to sleep, but she suddenly recognized me, smiling and sitting there, saying, "Don't worry, let me sit here. I am waiting for your parents to come back, then I will go to sleep". Smiling, her eyes were already almost blind, but you could still see the peaceful happiness in her eyes.

Grandma was in her 90s. She's very healthy most of the time.

Her kindness, peaceful happiness will always stay in my memories.

I hope now she can be with grandpa, the only man she loved in her life, and feel happy.
