very sorry to hear that and I can totally understand your feeling at this moment. Hope you sun.

Whole day driving, running and talking to so many people without any appetite to eat really gave me a splitting headache this Saturday.

Under the sun, all the others looks to enjoy their lives, except me.

Under the sun, who has disclosed my private information? I'm still confused.
Under the sun, how come the police cannot do anything?
Under the sun, my anger found nowhere to go.

“Watch that TV show, and you will feel better.”

ANOTHER STORY UNDER THE SUN

- SOMETIMES YOUR COUSIN IS RIGHT

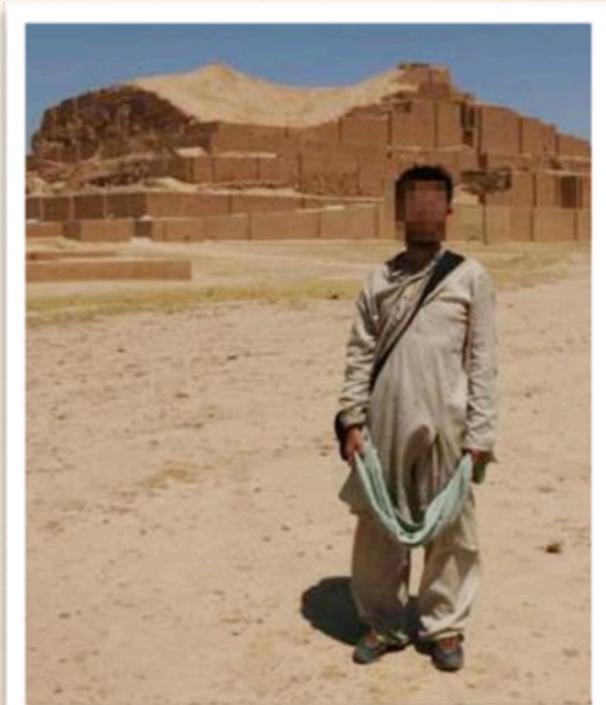

That's a TV show where people can share their unusual experience. The story shared by this person shocked me and really made me feel better.

He's name is Liu Tuo and he's a PhD student of Archeology at Peking University.

In 2015, he got captured in Iraq prison by mistake.

In a country surrounded by wars and terrorism, without any tourism development, a foreigner appeared there with a visitor's visa was suspicious.

Although he has been questioned by the military multiple times and all passed, in the last time, he has been put into the prison. There, each prison cell has 40+ prisoners.

ANOTHER STORY UNDER THE SUN

- SOMETIMES YOUR COUSIN IS RIGHT

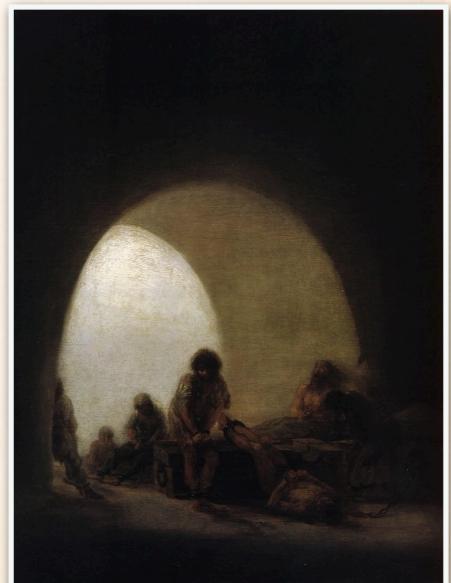

On the first day he got put into the prison, there was only a tiny window in the cell, he was sitting close to the light, dare not to look at the other 40 prisoners behind him.

One of the prisoner patted him on his shoulder and told Tuo, his name is Muhammad, he's a doctor. But Tuo still dare not to move at all. Then Muhammad started to introduce other prisoners to Tuo, most of those prisoners are doctors, teachers and journalists. Tuo still didn't move...

When the dinner time came, a huge bowl of food came in for the prisoners to share. Tuo was still sitting still there... Muhammad asked Tuo to eat with them, but Tuo dare not to move. So the prisoners said, if Tuo was not going to eat, they won't eat either. Finally, Tuo decide to eat and all the other prisoners started to cheer. Their eyes were filled with happiness.

There is a small TV there, Tuo only understands one of the TV shows, so each time when the TV show started, all the other prisoners will change to that channel so that Tuo could watch the program.

The cell was too small for 40+ people, it's impossible for all of them to lie down to sleep in that 20 squared meters cell, so they fell asleep in turn but often let Tuo to be able to lie down, close to the only air conditioner. Tuo also tried his best to give back.

ANOTHER STORY UNDER THE SUN

- SOMETIMES YOUR COUSIN IS RIGHT

One of the prisoners was especially close to Tuo, his name is Omar. But because he was a thief, others were not willing to talk to him.

When Tuo was feeling sad, Omar would come, talking jokes and making faces, trying to make Tuo feel better, although Tuo could not understand the language. In the afternoon, when it was super hot, he would bring Tuo some ice-cubes. At night, they didn't have pillows to sleep, so he would give Tuo his arm as the pillow.

Finally Tuo has been released. On his releasing day, all the prisoners were cheering for Tuo and they all tried to shake hands with Tuo behind the bar. Tuo was shaking hands with each of them and could not help to weep.

At the end, the prison police decided to let Omar come out and say goodbye with Tuo. Omar was smiling to Tuo, holding the shoes that Tuo didn't wear for weeks, sweating all over and standing there, waiting for Tuo.

Tuo could not help to run towards Omar, holding him closely, hoping to have his smell on himself for a longer time. Since he knows, in the future, they will never see each other again.

What made me feel better is the humanity among those Iranian prisoners. Living in an environment without peace, got captured in the prison and had to live through such crude environment, they are still so positive, so kind.

Comparing with them, my situation is much better. I have a peace environment to live, healthy life style, having a job I like and working on things I'm passionate about. I have freedom, and I have family and friends to talk to.

Under the sun,
there are others suffering from the pain we could never imagine,
but they still have the love, kindness towards others, towards life.

Under the sun of this peace world,
anything else I could complain?
